Matrix Selected to Supply Natural Resource Advisors for Gulf Coast Restoration

Matrix New World Engineering, Inc., to supply Natural Resource Advisors and Team Leaders for oil spill coastal cleanup operations.

East Hanover, NJ - July 5, 2011

The Gulf Coast Restoration Organization (GCRO) has chosen Matrix New World Engineering, Inc. (Matrix) as one of three firms to supply Natural Resource Advisors (NRAs) and NRA Team Leaders to support its ongoing coastal cleanup operations related to the 2010 Deepwater Horizon oil spill.

Since May 2010, Matrix has been actively participating in the oil spill response efforts in the region. The firm served as a member of a team that developed boom deployment strategies, conducted wildlife capture operations and provided natural resource advisory services throughout the area. Reflecting its ongoing involvement, Matrix formed an Oil Spill Response Support Group that is based in Mobile, Alabama.

According to Senior Vice President Dennis Petrocelli, PG, "Matrix is proud to continue serving in the ongoing program to restore the environment in the Gulf Coast region".

Formed in 1990, Matrix is a leading woman-owned full-service engineering and environmental services firm. Matrix is working on a wide range of infrastructure, building and environmental projects for public and private-sector clients throughout the United States. The East Hanover, NJ-based company has offices in the Northeast as well as Alabama and Arizona.
